

In the Abstract:

Please substitute the following paragraph for the abstract now appearing in the currently filed specification:

Described are systems and methods for orienting a semiconductor wafer during semiconductor fabrication with the aid of an optical alignment system, the semiconductor wafer having an alignment mark with regular structures, on the basis of which the position of the semiconductor wafer can be determined.